President of the Southern Attacks Government Railroad

Enormous Powers, He Declares, to a Body Without Any

NEWARK, N. J., October 11 .- That government control of railroad properties, as proposed in the Esch-Townsend bill. which was introduced in the inst session which was introduced in the last session of Congress, is unfair, unjust to the rail-roads, opposed to the fundamental principles of Anglo-Saxon juri-prudence, and is, equivalent to providing by statute for the enforcement of commercial lynch law, is in substance the reply of the railroads to the agitation for railroad rate legislation, as outlined by President Samuel Spencer in an address this evening before the Newark Board of Trade. Mr. Spencer said:

turers, to create new communities and naintain the prosperity of those aiready established, and to co-operate to the full-est possible extent to enlarge the volume of both our domestic and foreign trade.

Bureaucratic Methods. "It is now proposed to change this sys-tem and substitute for it one in which ar-tificial bureaueratic methods will take the place of natural laws of trade and com-merce, which have been the controlling force in the evolution of the present sys-

"And it must be borne in mind that it is proposed to give these enormous powers to a body on whom no responsibility rests or can rest, for the preservation or maintenance of the railroad property, or for the discharge of its financial obligations or the fulfillment of its duties to the public as an efficient common carrier. "The President, in his last annual measage, laid special emphasis upon the necessity for doing away with rebates and for the keeping of the highways of transportation open to all upon equal terms.

The Secret Rebate.

The Secret Rebate.

"No rational suggestions have been made, however, as to how the granting of rate-making power to the Interstate Commerce Commission could be effective to this end. A rebate or any secret discriminatory device can, of course, be applied to a government-made rate as well as to one made by the carrier.

"In fact, a rate established by the commission and thereafter unalterable by the carrier in reduction or otherwise, except upon petition to the commission, instead of serving as a cure or a preventative, would be a distinct incentive towards secret reduction, when commercial conditions derianded land a public and legal reduction could not be promptly made.

"One of the most serious objections to the legislation proposed is that under it a rate once fixed by the commission would continue in force indefinitely, unless changed by the commission or by the court. The carrier would, therefore, have no power to make either reductions or increases to meet new conditions. Slow but steady paralysis would creep into the international arteries, through which the blood of commerce flows, and the transportation system would gradually become numb and rigid. All rates would soon he machine-made only, and commerce and industrial centres, acknowledsing no bounds for the utilimate distribution of their products, would find themselves operating in narrower and narrower zones, finally circumscribed by governmental edicts as to where their wares should go.

Rights of Property.

"The plan of conferring upon the com-cumscribed by governmental edicts as to where their wares should go.

Rights of Property.

"The plan of conferring upon the commission the power to make or revise retes and make them effective prior to review by courts would be open to the decisive objection that it is necessarily unjust to the railroads, and orposed to the fundamental principle of fantlo-Saxon juriserredence that rights of property and persons shall be enforced and protected according to due process of line.

"Virtually there is not a single respect in which the Interstate Commerce Commission resembles a court. It is a sort of a railroad grant jury. In the courts of the country a grand jury cannot try a case that it has investigated and inaugurated, and no member of the jury can elt upon the jury which tries the case. The commission which investigates offerses and initiates prosecutions may and does, in addition, sit in judgment upon some causes which have been the sublect of the investigation and prosecution. In other words, the plaintiff in the litigation is the judge that tries the case. All such features are utterly forcign to courts, and they are utterly incompatible with an impartial attitude.

"To place power in the hands of one

There is no issue or controversy before the people or Congress as to whether or not rebutes or secret discriminations should be stopped. No one-desires more than the rullway managers themselves that there should be an end to all such practices.
